We fix things.
And make it better.

A bold use of typography is key to create interaction and playfullness.

Honorable mention

Little Red Riding Hood is moving up on theatre* awards!

The Brothers Grimm hit the stage with an epic fairytale about the choices we make. Designers will especially enjoy highlighting the elements of this magical play.

LOGOTYPE

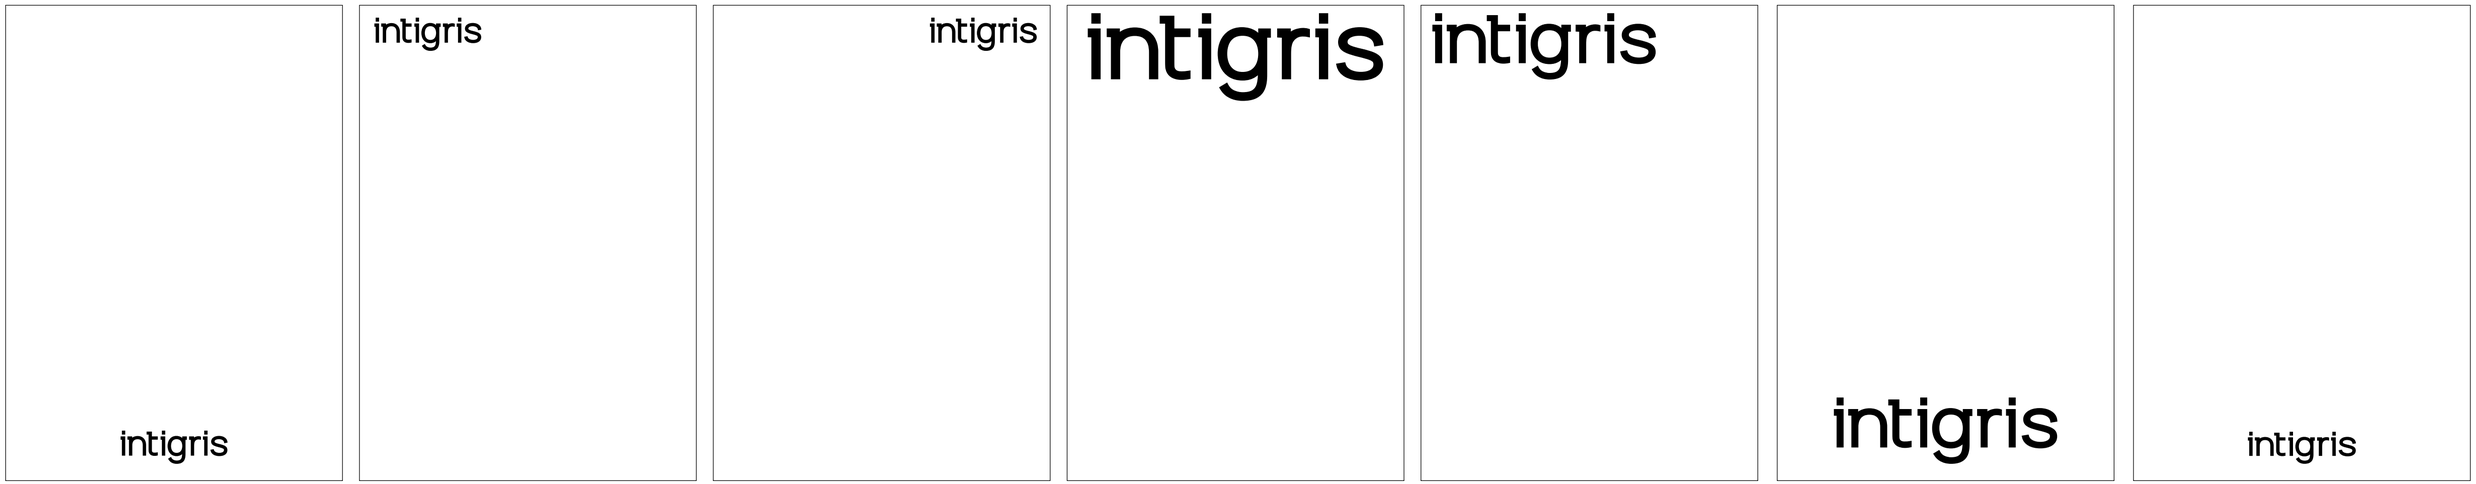

intigris

A classic swiss type font has also been used but slightly tweaked to give it more personality. Using lower cast gives the logo a more rounded look. It becomes less static, and feels very approachable. The added strokes give some contrast and give the image more weight.

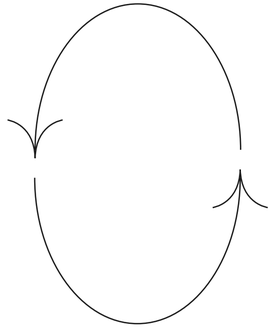

GRAPHICS + THE GRID

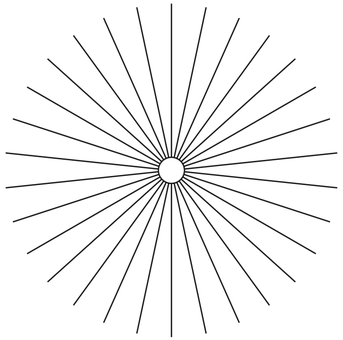

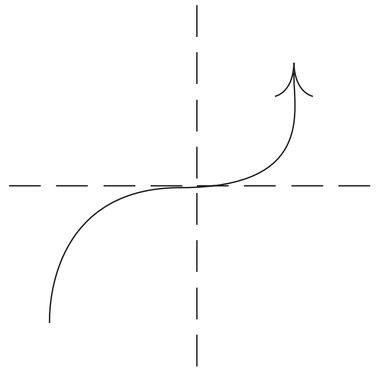

To reflect the idea of invention, fitting the pieces of the puzzle and make the graphic language dynamic, the use of moving icons are part of the visual identity. Using personnalized icons instead of general ones creates connection with a brand.

The grid is a reference to systems and structured thinking. It can be displayed literally or adapted in a broader sense as can be seen on the website visualisations.

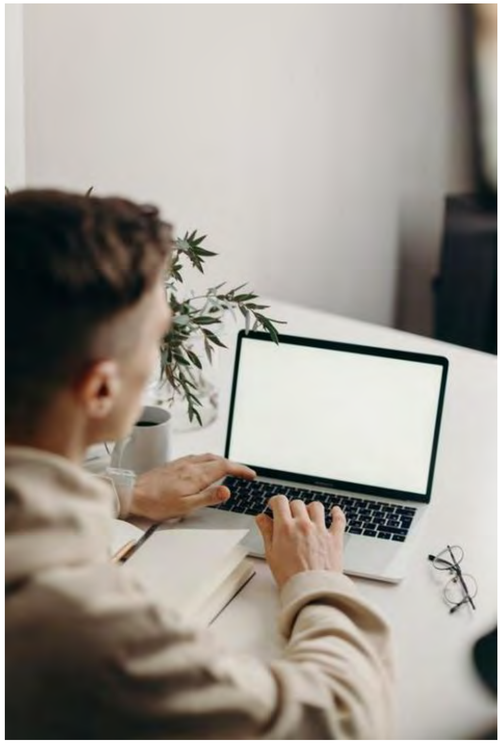

PHOTOGRAPHY

01. Mood

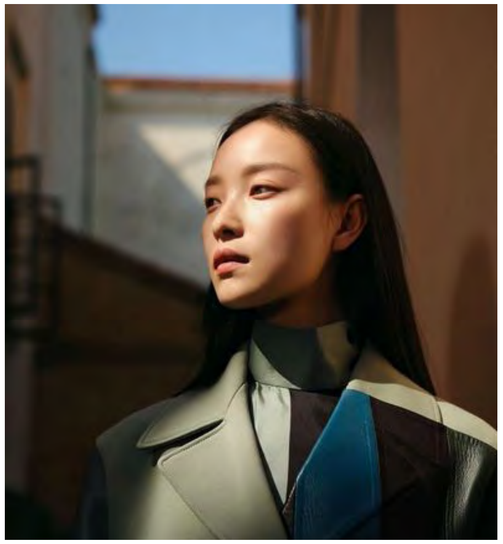

In order to capture the feeling of a high end brand, photography plays an essential part. The consultancy part Intigris offers can be instantly communicated through the right imagery, but the challenge is to not fall into the trap of cold corporate stock images. To convey the right feeling, composition and styling is key. Through it, clients will feel character. The images should have spaciousness but also attention for details.

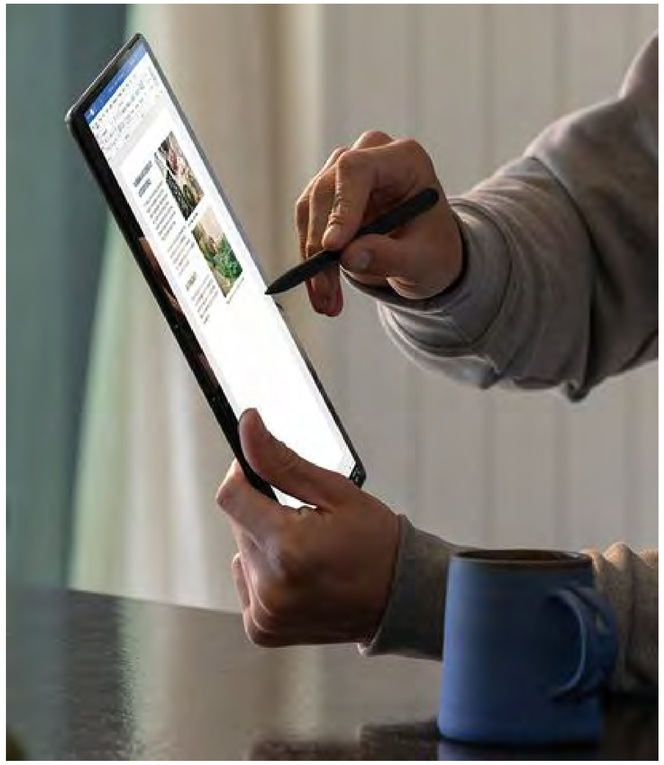

There is a very human aspect as well as a reference to uplevelling.

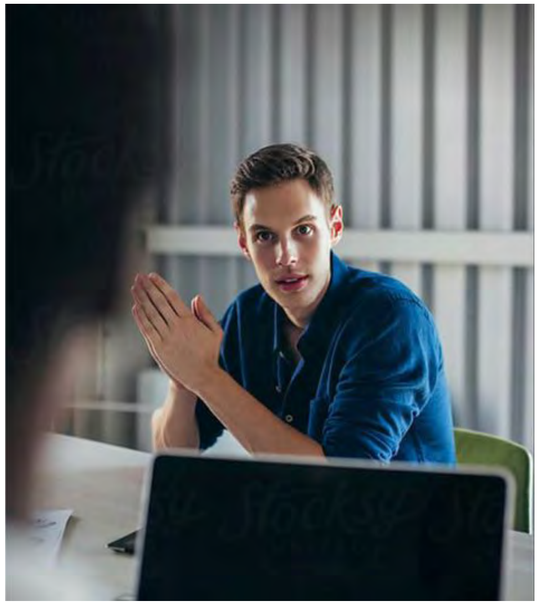

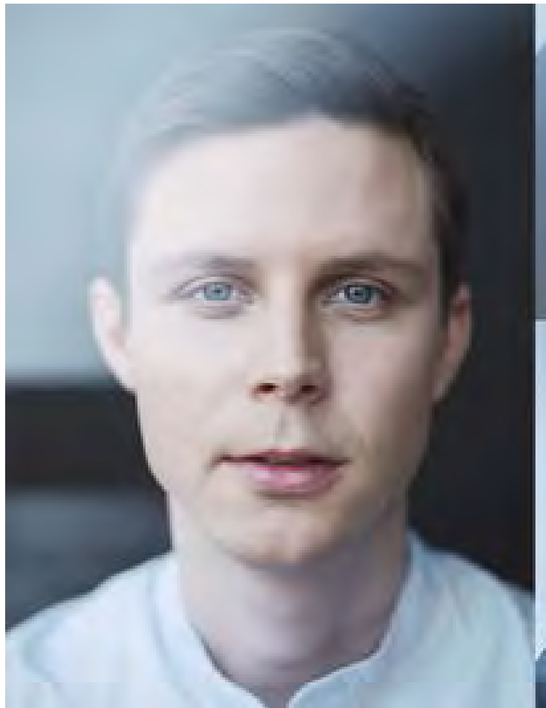

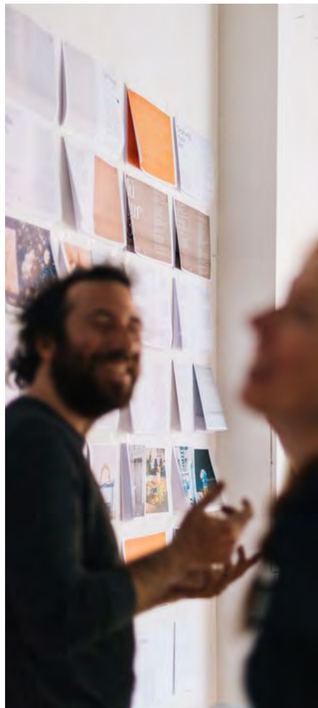

PHOTOGRAPHY

02. You

We all like to see the faces behind the brand. In alignment with the previous idea, the photography needs to have an interesting element of depth, and focuses on minimal settings with attention for styling in clothing.
